The Elden Ring is a world-class RPG developed by Mages. The world of the Elden Ring is based in the Myth of a grand and complex world that exists between the lands of humans and elves, which is known as the Lands Between. The setting of the Elden Ring is the Lands Between in the ancient past. The open world that you explore is a world full of energy and life where animals roam freely, plants grow abundantly, and everything is surrounded by scenic views. You, the hero in a tale born from a myth, will live and die within this world. Using the power of the legendary Elden Ring, a ring of power, you will challenge a great evil and perform heroic feats. You will also encounter various odd and memorable characters, be it friends or foes. The Elder, a magic user who appears before you, will guide you towards achieving your goals. Go forth, Tarnished Knight! As you rise, Tarnished, and be guided by grace to brandish the power of the Elden Ring and become an Elden Lord in the Lands Between, bring the vitality of your personality to the Elden Ring. Rise, Tarnished, and be guided by grace, and prove your worth. Source: ABOUT ENIGMATI GAMES: Enigmati Games is a company that intends to create a living game, in which users get to experiment with a variety of genres. After making the decision to pursue the same strategy in all their games, the developers at Enigmati began actively planning their first title, Legend of Grimrock. The core of Enigmati's philosophy is to establish a balance between development-oriented games and fantasy-orientated games. Enigmati is currently developing Legend of Grimrock 2, but it is clear that the studio intends to continue introducing titles with a focus on compelling fantasy worlds. Q: Is it possible to use GET to return JSON and also trigger POST request? I have two REST API endpoints in the same application. Say, one is for user registration and another for user login. Currently, I implemented the registration API and is working fine. However, now I want to introduce the login API to track every login action to my users. I do not want to use another independent registration API. Is it possible to somehow return JSON and trigger POST request if the user is found to login? Assume my endpoint address is: &password= And my current request code looks like:

import requests
params = { "username": "jdoe", "password": "jh1234", }
r = requests.post("", data=params)

However, I want to trigger the POST request if both username and password are correct. I'm asking since only Java will not let me start with URL prefix, so I have to use HTML. I mean I do not know the key to access the correct REST API.

A: You can use the cookie parameter to send the username and password in the authentication headers of the request.

c = requests.session()
c.get(url)
params = { "username": "jdoe", "password": "jh1234", }
POST request with cookie, redirects to the login url
c.post(url, data=params, cookies={'username': "jdoe", 'password': "jh1234"})
get a 200 response with the "login" redirect url r
